GOVERNOR BRYAN'S ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 19.—Governor Charles Bryan, in accepting the Democratic nomination for the vice presidency, tendered him formally here, last night, said:

Senator Harrison, Members of the Notification Committee and Fellow Citizens:

The generous statement of your chairman in presenting your message, and in placing before this audience, and into the ears of unseen millions throughout the land his encouragement and cheer to those who believe in a government by the people, is sincerely appreciated.

I would be wholly lacking in the impulses of humanity if I failed to appreciate the very great honor the Democratic party has conferred upon me in nominating me for vice president of the United States. I would be derelict in my obligations to the Democratic party and to the nation as well if I failed to recognize the responsibilities accompanying that honor.

The desire on the part of the citizens of Lincoln that this notification take place here was very gratifying to me. I have made my home here for thirty years. I have come to know these people as only few could know them. It is here and from here that I have taken part in the business life, social life and the political life of the city and state. I am indebted to the people of Lincoln and of the state of Nebraska for whatever success I may have achieved.

My connection for more than twenty years with the publication in Lincoln of "The Commoner," a national magazine devoted to the defense and welfare of the common people in their inalienable rights, gave me an opportunity to try to apply the principles of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none" to the political problems that are constantly confronting the people of every city and of every state. My connection with the problems of government, city and state in which the people of Lincoln and the state of Nebraska, regardless of party affiliation or station in life, have cooperated and supported me is largely responsible for the high honor that this occasion confers.

As a business man who has been endeavoring to apply business principles to government and not as an experienced platform speaker, I will give to our national leader all the support that my abilities will permit.

By the selection of one from the heart of the great middle west as its candidate for the vice presidency, the Democratic party recognizes the importance of agriculture as one of the basic industries of the nation, and we have the assurance that our party is in direct sympathy with the needs and advancement of the farmers of the country.

No man should accept, nor should a great political party tender the nomination to a candidate, without a full realization on both sides that such a selection imposes on the one chosen a obligation to the whole people to stand true to the ideals of America. The ambitions of the individuals are of no consequence and must not stand in the way of the preservation and success of a democratic form of government which can only be secured and maintained by guarding the happiness, prosperity and contentment of the people residing in all sections of the country.

This nation is composed of diverse peoples and activities. The success of a nation requires that the desires and interests of each shall be subject to the needs and rights of all. Individuals, groups, factions and organizations whether they be persons, parties, creeds or races economic or otherwise, must be so restrained that the equal rights of others shall not be impaired.

Time, nor the occasion, will permit a review of all the issues treated in the platform of our party but I will analyze some of them in the plain direct manner to which the people of the agricultural states are accustomed.

A Progressive Platform

The representatives of the people, the good men and women who served as delegates at the recent national Democratic convention, did their work well. The platform which they adopted upholds the ideals of America, demands a return to the honesty in government of our forefathers, and outlines the legislative and administrative policies necessary to restore equality in government. It is the most progressive platform, covering the tried and practical measures for the economic freedom and prosperity of the people, that has ever been promulgated by a national political convention.

The great Democratic convention so recently held in Madison Square Garden, is a striking illustration of the soundness of heart and soundness of mind of the American people.

Though, at times, torn by passions and prejudices that great convention refused to be cajoled into cowardice or deadlocked into desperation, but tenaciously held to its purpose until out of the dying embers of controversy the spirit of unity rose and reason triumphed in the nomination of that able lawyer, that trained diplomat, that experienced statesman, that champion of the rights of humanity, that progressive Democrat, John W. Davis.

Trusting efficiency and economy in government affairs, municipal, state and national, are the need of the hour. There must be honesty in the heart, honesty in the mind, honesty in business and honesty in official life if the ideals of the republic are to be maintained. Efficiency and economy in business and government can only be achieved by integrity in thought and in action.

The great masses of the people today are calling for progressive leadership. The unrest throughout the country is caused by inertia on the part of public officials, mounting numbers of government employees, duplications and overlapping in governmental agencies, useless boards and commissions, the resultant high cost of government and excessive taxation, and the failure of the government to function for the protection and welfare of the weaker members of society.

The buying of immunities, the issuing of permits, the hoisting of tariff schedules and the granting of government oil leases in return for campaign contributions must be uprooted and destroyed forever if this government is to endure. Men must be selected for public positions on account of their honesty and ability, and not on account of their wealth, their social qualities or their political strategy.

Woman's Worth and Equality

Our platform takes special notice of woman's entrance into the arena of politics. Woman's rightful place is by the side of man. Their blood is mingled in their off-spring and they are uniting as no others can be in guarding the home, the unit of society, the nursery of youth. Everything that is good and wholesome will be benefitted by woman's counsel. Every righteous cause will triumph the sooner because of her political activity. She will not only be the vigilant defender of health, education and spiritual life but as treasurer of the household she will powerfully assist in the introduction of economies in government. The Democratic party has no principles, policies or plans that it cannot submit to her sense of justice. She has been enfranchised and her request that she be recognized on an equality with man in employment, compensation and jury service is reasonable and equitable.

The welfare, education and protection of child life, and the care of mothers are of first importance and should be given every consideration that law and administration can offer.

Our party testifies to its interest in the child labor amendment to the constitution by pointing out that it could not have been submitted without Democratic votes. Since the adoption of the Democratic platform, Arkansas, a Democratic state, has the honor to be the first state to ratify the child labor amendment.

All legislation for the benefit of the wage earners rests on the first sentence of our platform's labor plank. "Labor is not a commodity. It is human." Therefore it must be dealt with humanly. Lincoln echoed the sentiments of Jefferson when he declared that in case of conflict between the two the man must come before the dollar. That is a fundamental difference between the attitude of Republican leaders and the attitude of Democratic leaders on this subject. The "captains of industry" have their place and should be protected in their rights, but those whom they employ and whose labor they direct have rights as sacred as these rights are as essential as their employers to industrial welfare and our political progress. Equality of political rights implies, and should be accompanied by, equality of opportunity.

The Democratic party was the first large party to declare for a secretary of labor, and the Democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson was the first to have a representative of labor at the president's council table. The Democratic party has led in protecting the wage earners' rights to organize and to bargain collectively. It has been labor's champion in securing the eight hour day and in obtaining for him protection from government by injunction. Labor is entitled to a living wage at American standards with a margin for old age. The refusal of the present Republican administration to permit the railway mail employees to receive a living wage at American standards was unfair and unjust to labor and illustrates the fact that their economy program is at the expense of labor. Economy at the expense of humanity is further illustrated in the veto of the pension bill and of the soldiers' adjusted compensation measure.

Our party has always been the laboring man's friend, not to secure his vote but because the nation cannot progress unless he progresses. It cannot ignore his inalienable rights without jeopardizing the rights of all. The Democratic party pledges all its energies to the outlaying of the whole war system. The statement could not be stronger and it expresses the sentiment of a large majority of the American people. The only hope of the world is found in the substitution of machinery for peace in the place of machinery for war.

War propaganda, mobilization demonstrations of the civil and industrial resources of the country when we are at peace with the world, unnecessarily inflames the mind of the American youth, and are a great waste of time, mislead the people of other lands as to the peaceful and friendly intention of the United States government and should be discarded by all friends of world peace.

Our party will endeavor to secure

Better Than Water.
An invalid whose mouth became dry and parched during the night, a fever patient, will find that a single, cut into small pieces and placed within easy reach of the bed, a piece may be held in the mouth from time to time, will be more beneficial than water. It has the advantage that a patient can manage the piece of orange more easily than he could a glass of water.

JESUS TALKS WITH NICODEMUS

LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Nicodemus Visits Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Visit of Nicodemus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Become a Christian.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The New Birth.

The subject of the conversation with Nicodemus was the new birth. This topic had peculiar significance in the light of Nicodemus' station in life. He was a learned rabbi, a doctor of the law and presumably a man of good character. His coming by night indicates his timidity. Like Joseph of Arimathea he was afraid to openly espouse the cause of the new Teacher of Galilee lest he be put out of the synagogue.

1. The Necessity of the New Birth (vv. 1-7).

It is not a matter of choice as to whether one is to be born again but of necessity if he is ever to see the Kingdom of God. Regeneration is the first demand the Gospel of Christ makes upon men. The reasons for this are:

1. The Kingdom of God is a spiritual Kingdom; therefore there must be a spiritual birth in order to enter it. (v. 3). As we enter the physical kingdom by a natural birth, so we enter the Kingdom of God by a supernatural birth.

2. The nature which we get through the natural birth is radically and essentially bad. Christ declares that that which is born of the flesh is flesh (v. 6). In Galatians 5:19-21, Paul gives a catalogue of the works of the flesh. The flesh cannot be improved (Jer. 13:23). Culture and education, do all you please, and it still remains flesh. Furthermore, in order to enter into the kingdom of heaven there must be a nature fitted for heaven. There is nothing that can be substituted for the new birth. Men are trying to substitute morality and education for the new birth. Nicodemus possessed these; yet Christ declared that he needed something more. Regeneration is the act of God through the Holy Spirit which quickens a man from spiritual death and plants within him God's own nature (II Pet. 1:4).

11. The Mystery of the New Birth (vv. 8-13).

Its process is mysterious, but its results are definite. You may not be able to discern from whence the wind cometh or whither it goeth, but you know that it blows by its effects. The fruit of our lives demonstrates our nature, whether it is heavenly or carnal. We need not be told that we have a physical birth for our bodies with their various faculties in exercise prove it. Even so the presence within us of a nature which has no affinity for the things of the world, a strong affection for God and a disposition to yield prompt obedience to His commands, proves that we have been born from above. Galatians 5:22, 23, is an infallible test.

111. The Ground Upon Which the New Birth Rests (vv. 14-18).

Christ's atoning death on the cross makes regeneration possible. He took the place of sinners. His infinite merit was placed to their account. He suffered in the sinners' stead. Just as the Israelites had only to look on the brazen serpent in the wilderness so the sinner must look to Christ uplifted upon the cross. See Num. 21:4-9, John 12:32, II Cor. 5:21, I Pet. 2:24. Our salvation cost on the part of God the giving up of His only begotten Son and on the part of Christ the sufferings and shame of the cross.

IV. For Whom Salvation Was Provided (vv. 16, 17) "Whosoever believeth on Him."

These verses give in a condensed form the whole plan of salvation. Observe:

1. The Source—God so loved.
2. The Ground—the death of Christ.
3. The Recipients—whosoever.
4. How Appropriated—believing in Him.
5. Results—should not perish; everlasting life.

V. Men's Attitude Toward Christ (vv. 18-21).

1. Some Believe and Are Saved. Those who believe are now free from condemnation (John 5:24).

2. Some Will Not Follow and Are Rejected. Therefore, Under the Condemnation of God. The cause of their unbelief in Him is their love of sin.

"Speculation Vs. Certainties"

When they asked the dying Pharisee, "What are your speculations?" he replied that he was not "piling up his head on any speculations." Said he "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day."—Exchange.

POULTRY

SUMMER FEEDING OF HENS IS IMPORTANT

Nature will not supply enough animal protein in the form of bugs and worms during the spring and summer to supply the laying flock of poultry with what is needed to insure good egg production, says A. G. Phillips head of the poultry department of Purdue university. In the spring when birds get onto free range and in the summer when they utilize the entire farm for exercise, it is a common practice to reduce the amount of mash containing protein and depend upon the grain as the large part of the feed to be supplied by those who keep poultry.

As the weather warms up, birds do not need as much heat supplied by the grain as they do in the winter. Consequently the grain consumption should naturally be reduced and mash consumption increased. In order to see that the birds eat more mash as the season progresses it may be necessary to feed practically no grain in the morning. If the Purdue mash of 50 pounds bran, 50 pounds middlings and 30 pounds tankage is used, the proportion of grain to mash in the spring should be two to one and in the summer one to one, or equal parts of grain to mash.

As a rule egg production begins to slump as soon as warm weather arrives, but if the mash consumption increases the slump will not be so great. The summer production can be very high and consequently very profitable. On farms where much waste grain is available it may be wise to confine the birds until about ten o'clock in the morning, thus compelling them to eat mash before they are permitted to roam over the farm. High mash consumption is absolutely necessary to insure summer egg production.

Green Feeds and Water Essential for All Hens

It is absolutely essential that layers be furnished green feed of some kind. The question of how to supply this green feed must be decided by the individual. For maximum egg production the bird must have access to fresh clean water at all times, which should neither be too hot nor too cold. One hundred hens in good laying condition should consume from 12 to 24 quarts of water daily, and in extremely hot weather even more.

When properly fed, milk makes an excellent feed for laying hens. Skim milk or buttermilk are economical feeds and when available should be used instead of the higher-priced protein feeds such as meat scraps. Skimmed milk not only contains the valuable food nutrients, but it is in the form that is easily digested. Sour milk is preferable to sweet milk, since sweet milk when fed may not all be consumed before it sours, thus causing the fowl to have sweet food at one time, and then sour immediately following, which is not advisable. Furthermore, sour milk contains an acid that is said to be a benefit in controlling bowel troubles.

Grit in some form is very essential to the health of a flock and also means economy in feeding. It is also to be remembered that shells are just as important as any other part of the egg. A large amount of lime is used in building these shells. Unless some form of lime is supplied, hens lay eggs heavily will not secure a sufficient amount to manufacture the shells.

Corn Gluten in Ration

Corn gluten feed makes an excellent addition to the ration, and may be procured through almost any feed store. It is highly palatable and may be fed to advantage in the dry mash with other feed, such as follows: One hundred pounds of cornmeal, 100 pounds of bran, 100 pounds of white middlings, 100 pounds of ground feed, 100 pounds of corn gluten feed, 100 pounds of meat scrap, 6 pounds of charcoal, 6 pounds of salt.

Poultry Hints

Keep a good, strong padlock on the hen-coop door.

Six roosters with each 100 hens should give good fertility and hatchability with Leghorns.

Ground where last year's chicks died isn't good ground for this year's chicks. Move the coops and brooders.

The Orpington is an English general-purpose breed that is winning quite a white in America. Orpingtons have a white skin and produce brown eggs—an unusual combination.

A. A. Holberg, assistant poultryman at the Minnesota college farm, saves himself work in cleaning droppings boards by keeping them covered with a layer of fine sand. He says it keeps the boards more sanitary, too.

Feeding the chicks too soon cause diarrhea. The egg yolk enters the chick's body shortly before the chicks hatch. The chick should have time to use up this yolk before it is given any other feed.

LIVE STOCK

Right Kind of Care of Stock in Winter Urged

"For the most part, the principal object in keeping live stock on a farm in winter is to have it available to utilize grass in summer," says Prof. W. A. Peters, chief of the division of animal husbandry of the University of Minnesota. "At least it may be said that the cheapest gains made by live stock of any kind on the farm are the gains made from grass. On many farms whatever profit there is in live stock comes from the cheap summer gains made from the pastures. Looking at the problem of wintering stock from this angle, it is readily seen that the principal object must be to winter the herds as cheaply as possible and yet avoid losses and keep the breeding animals and the young growing stock in a thrifty condition so that they will be in shape to go on pasture in the spring and utilize grass to the best possible advantage.

"Too high an overhead expense in buildings, labor and feed has been the cause of failure of live stock to show a profit on many farms. On the other hand, too low an expenditure and too little effort and too little attention to the stock in winter has also often resulted in failure. There is a happy medium between these two extremes.

"This happy medium is found where animals are so housed as to be kept comfortable, yet allowing of their being handled with a minimum of labor; where feeds suitable to the wintering of the stock have been grown upon the farm and are supplied to the animals with regularity and in the proper amounts required to attain the object in view. Such matters as providing bedding, keeping sleeping quarters clean and sanitary, supplying water in such a way that animals can drink without risk of falling and hurting themselves or without being chilled by drinking from an ice-covered tank, seeing that animals inclined to take too little exercise, such as brood sows, are compelled to take the necessary exercise—all these items and many more similar in character must be studied and worked out ever with the idea of holding down wintering costs and yet avoiding shrinkage or loss of animals in so far as it is possible to accomplish this."

Lack of Exercise Cause of Weak Pigs at Birth

Baby pigs, like most other animals, are subject to numerous troubles at birth. A little knowledge of how to prevent and treat their troubles may save many who might otherwise die, according to Harry B. Rowland, of the animal husbandry department, at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture.

One of the most common causes of weak pigs at birth is lack of exercise of both the sire and dam previous to the breeding time, or of the mother before the pigs are born. Weak pigs are easily chilled and usually die if born during the month of March and exposed to the changing weather which this month usually brings. At birth, such troubles as navel diseases or navel infection and diarrhea (scours), either non-infectious or infectious, often cause heavy losses.

The navel cord should be swabbed with tincture of iodine at birth to prevent infection later.

Diarrhea is usually treated indirectly through the mother by flushing out her system with a physic such as epsom salts, or by adding a small amount of linseed oil meal to her ration.

At all times during the suckling period the mother should be fed clean, wholesome food in a clean trough, and as well should be kept in warm, clean pen. Then most of the trouble at farrowing time will be avoided, and more pigs will be saved.

Important That Ram Be Thrifty and Vigorous

I make it a point to see that the ram is thrifty, vigorous, and not over-fat at mating time. If the ram is too fat, he will be clumsy, slow, and likely to prove impotent.

The mating season is strenuous for the ram, and he must be in the best physical condition. This requires that he have plenty of exercise; a regular supply of salt and fresh water; a suitable grain feed, such as equal parts of corn, oats and wheat bran.

We often find that a ram which did excellent service one year will not always render the same quality of service the following year. Nor can one depend upon a young, strong-looking ram lamb. The good sheep breeder must have first-hand knowledge of the condition of the head of the flock through frequent examinations.—Reynolds.

Essex Is Small English

Hog and Matures Quickly
The Essex is a small black hog with short snout, slightly dished face; small, fine, erect ears; heavy jaws, short neck, broad back, well developed shoulders and hams, short legged and fine boned. It is an English breed. A great number of them were imported into this country at one time, but importations have now almost stopped. The Essex matures quickly and is easily kept fat. Its chief drawback in this country is the fact that it is too small.

GOVERNOR BRYAN'S
ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

world disarmament by international agreement—it is a condition precedent to peace. It will also strive for an international agreement providing for a referendum on war except in case of actual or threatened invasion! This may require time but it is worth working for and worth waiting for. The reason given in the Democratic platform for a referendum on war will commend itself to the conscience of the world; upon it will be built the sentiment that will some day make this a warless world. Until international agreements can be made to maintain the peace of the world, an adequate army and navy for our national safety must be maintained.

Needs of Agriculture

All political parties give much attention to the needs of agriculture, especially during political campaigns. The attitude of the two major political parties towards agriculture, its importance, its conditions and its needs, is clearly indicated by their records in congress and their positions as set forth in their respective platforms. Four years ago, at the time the Republican administration came into power, the farmers and stock raisers were receiving good prices for their produce. There was a market at fair prices for land. The farmers were among the first to feel the effects of legislation and administration action which changed the condition of the farmers from prosperity to adversity, and caused the farmer's bank balance to disappear and mortgages on his farm to take its place. The Republican policy of reducing the higher schedules of the surtax on incomes and removing the tax from the profiteer, and, through this means shifting the taxes from those who were best able to pay to those who were already overburdened, had its direct and injurious effect on the farmers. The adoption by the Republican party of the prohibitive tariff compelled the American farmer to purchase what he used and wore in an artificial and highly protected market, and the same high tariff rates reduced the buying ability of the farmer's customers abroad for his surplus grain and meat. The deflation policy of the Republican administration, advocated in its natural platform of 1920 and endorsed in the speech of acceptance of its candidate for the presidency, resulted in withdrawing bank loans and discounts of $5,000,000,000, contracted our currency by a $1,500,000,000, cut the prices of the farmer's grain and live stock in half, destroyed the market value of his lands, threw thousands of farmers into bankruptcy and spread industrial depression and unemployment throughout the country.

The relief plan provided by the Republicans which increased the import duty on wheat, although the farmers were exporters of grain, has added to the farmer's knowledge of the workman of the protective tariff. Pretended relief measures provided by the Republican administration, for loaning the farmer money at high interest rates with a commission paid to middle men for making the loans has encouraged the farmer to go still deeper into debt and has made his final downfall more certain.

The Democratic party has proven itself to be the friend of the farmer in the past, and the platform adopted in the recent national Democratic convention provides for the most complete and practical relief for the farmer that any political party or organization has ever conceived. The farmer needs the high tariff rates reduced so as to enable him to buy in a competitive market at home and remove the restrictions which have injuriously effected the foreign market in which he sells his surplus products. He needs the support of the federal reserve system as it was intended by the Democratic party, which framed the bill, and he needs relief from the deflation policy of the Republican party which is largely responsible for the farmer's distress. The farmer needs lower railroad and water rates which will benefit both the buyer and seller, national and international. He needs the development of a deep waterways system from the Great lakes to the ocean and to the Gulf, and he needs the development of our water powers to supply cheaper fertilizer on the farm and to supply power, light and fuel for his service in his home. He needs better and more uniform warehouse laws. He needs legislation, state and national, that will enable the farmers to develop cooperative marketing facilities which will increase the price that he receives and reduce the price that the needs an export marketing corporation, or commission, so that his small surplus product, which is sold in the markets abroad will not establish the price of the whole crop that he produces. The farmer needs the benefit of the reclamation act of 1924, which was defeated by the Republican conferees one hour before adjournment of the last session of congress, and he needs the reclamation of the arid and semi-arid lands of the west. The farmer needs a Democratic administration and a congress that will not permit a Mellon tax plan to relieve the multi-millionaires from paying their just share of the cost of government. These are some of the measures of relief, advancement and encouragement that are outlined in the Democratic platform. These measures will not be unfair to any other industry or interest.

The farmers throughout the country who produce the wealth from the soil, who produce the foodstuffs upon which the people of the United States subsist and who make it possible for millions to survive in other parts of the world are not asking for special privileges. They are not demanding class legislation; they are not attempting to get hold of the government and use it to this disadvantage of other people. The farmers are demanding, however, and they have a right to demand, that the legislation which discriminates against them should be repealed; that the administrative measures that have injuriously affected them should be withdrawn and that agriculture, the basic industry of the nation, be placed on an equality with other interests that have grown and developed in this country. It is not more opportunities to borrow money that the farmer needs, it is legislative and administrative remedies that will reduce artificial prices of what he has to buy, remove the restrictions in the markets in which he has to sell his products, increase his ability to pay the money he has already been compelled to borrow and give him a price for his grain and live stock that will cover the cost of production, enable him to clothe, feed and educate his family and again take his place as a free and independent citizen.

Water Power

The Democratic platform favors the development of our water power. If the water power at Muscle Shoals, in the mountain streams and in the rivers throughout the land, were developed it would supply the power to operate all of our factories, all of our industries and all of our means of transportation. It would enable the raw materials of the country to be manufactured where they are produced, thus saving the cost of transportation of the raw product to the factory, and of the finished product back to the consumer. It would enable industries to spring up where needed most to create business and to supply human needs. If the water power of the nation were developed it would furnish electric current to light and heat the homes of the cities and on the farms, and supply electric power to operate all the machinery necessary for the needs of the farms and for the convenience and comfort of the homes, both city and rural, at a small fraction of the present cost.

The Democratic platform favors the strict public control and conservation of all the nation's natural resources, including coal, iron, oil and timber. The Democratic party believes that the nation should retain titles to its water power sites, and favors the expeditious creation and development of our water power for the use of our citizens. If the water power sites of the country were allowed to pass into the hands of great combinations of capital the people would pass under a yoke of servitude more galling, if possible, than any foreign landlord system. The platform favors the recovery of the navy's oil reserves, and all other parts of the public domain, which have been fraudulently or illegally leased or otherwise transferred to private interests.

The Democratic party is the friend of orderly government. It believes with Jefferson that acquiescence in the will of the people is the first principle of republics. Laws should be obeyed by all regardless of whether this or that individual may like or dislike them. It is the doctrine of America, that laws are to be obeyed by those who approve them. The Democratic platform declares that "The Republican administration has failed to enforce the prohibition laws; is guilty of trafficking in liquor permits and has become the protector of violators of this law." The Democratic party, through its platform, pledges itself to respect and enforce the constitution and all laws.

Private Monopoly

The Democratic platform has again reiterated its attitude towards a private monopoly when it says that "A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable." The failure of the Republican administration to enforce the law against conspiracies in restraint of trade and illegal combinations of business which stifle competition, has unnecessarily, unfairly and dishonestly increased the cost of living and permitted the profiteer to buy his trade without let or hindrance. Those engaged in agriculture, the middle classes and the wage earners, have been placed at such a disadvantage that their situation requires remedial action. The political unrest and discontent throughout the country are a protest against the inaction of those in public office.

The failure of the national Republican administration to enforce the law against private monopoly caused some of the states and state officials, in the middle west, to enter the field of commerce for the purpose of establishing competition to protect the public from the unconscionable profiteer. In this way millions of dollars a year have been saved to the people in their coal, gasoline and oil bills.

Municipal and state governments should not, in my opinion, engage in competition with legitimate private business, but when private monopoly defies the legally constituted authorities, or when government officials become corrupt and the federal government fails to function for the protection and welfare of the masses, it becomes necessary for the state and municipal governments to use all the means at their command to prevent impositions upon the public, or the result in the community and state will be I. W. Ws., bolsheviks, and anarchy.

I have only reviewed a few of the provisions of the Democratic platform but will discuss others at a later date.

I have called attention, at this time, to a few of the outstanding issues which are uppermost in the minds of the people of the great agricultural states, viz., woman's worth and equality, child welfare, the Democratic party's interest in and support of labor, the needs of the agriculturist, water power development, law enforcement and the outlawing of war.

Policy Is Progressive

The Democratic party's position on these questions is in keeping with the progressive thought of the times.

The measures approved in our platform are remedies for the relief suggested by the various groups of interested parties who have made a study of their respective needs. The Democratic candidates are in harmony with the platform upon which they have been nominated, and upon which they will go forth in this campaign.

The Democratic platform is broad enough, strong enough and progressive enough to satisfy those who believe in that great democratic principle of equality before the law.

The Democratic party presents a program of progressive policies for which the party stands as a unit, without the intervention of faction, bloc or section.

The Democratic party enters the campaign with a spirit of harmony and unity of purpose rarely found in a presidential contest.

The Democratic party placed more progressive measures, for the benefit and protection of the common people, in the constitution and in the statutes during the eight years of the administration of that great statesman and patriot, Woodrow Wilson, than ever were enacted by any other party during any twenty-five years of the nation's history.

The Democratic party during the World War demonstrated its ability to coordinate, its ability to govern, its integrity as a party and its desire to lead the nations of the world into an honorable and enduring peace. Notwithstanding he billions of dollars handled during the World War when the stress of the times required immediate decisions and the negotiation of large contracts without time for investigation or deliberation, no betrayal of a trust, no trace of graft and no scandal or dishonesty was brought to the door of any Democrat in official life. This is a record that cannot be duplicated in American history and it should be an assurance to every citizen, to every industry, to every business, and to every organization or interest that the Democratic party is the instrument, at this time, to carry into effect a government of, by and for the people.

It is unthinkable that the great host of progressive farmers and wage earners, both organized and unorganized, whom I know from active association and cooperation in service for many years, having this great party organization presented now as fit instrument through which to work their will, should permit a division of strength and make possible the triumph of the forces of reaction and selfish interest.

In accepting the nomination you tender me, I feel it is but due to say that I am conscious of no obligation to any interest or any individual that would embarrass me in the discharge of the duties of this office.

I feel that the Democratic party is equally free from obligation to either individuals or interests that would prevent it from being used to restore confidence in government and economic justice in the nation.

I therefore accept the nomination, Senator Harrison, with my solemn pledge that every ability I can exercise, and every effort I make, shall be with an eye single to the material and spiritual welfare of my country and my countrymen.

WHY FARMERS' ARE TURNING TO

for Economical Transportation

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Get Back Your Health as Other Bedford Folks Have Done

Too many people suffer lame, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late! Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Bedford cases:

W. H. Weyant, retired grocer, 245 W. Pitt St., says "When I stooped I had a sharp, knife-like pain down across my back. At night I was wakened with a steady pain across my kidneys and had to lie in one position to get relief. My kidneys were soon affected and became weak and I had to get up often at night. After using Doan's Pills I was cured and am now enjoying the best of health."

Mr. Weyant is only one of many Bedford people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you—don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S PILLS the same that Mr. Weyant had—the remedy backed by home testimony 60 cents at all dealers.
